Tersely Told

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Lewis, of Milton, were among the visitors in Pensacola yesterday.

Gordon Parker and J. A. Jernigan, of Brewton, are among the registered guests at the Merchants.

J. G. McGaughey, of Eufaula, Ala., is among the business visitors in the city who are registered at the Merchants.

The Journal is starting today the first of a series of "saving" heart talks on "saving." You should read these articles. They are worth it.
The first one will be found on the editorial page of today's paper.

The bondsmen of Jesse Moore, one of the naval stores operators who was shot in the shooting affray at Cantonment several days since, yesterday requested to be relieved as sureties, and Sheriff Van Pelt, finding Moore at the union depot, took him into custody until friends could reach here from the country to stand his surety, which is only $250.

EXAMINATION AT THE NAVY YARD

There will be an examination for appointment of apprentices, at the Pensacola navy yard, during the first week in June, 1907, in the following trades: Apprentice joiner, apprentice boatbuilder, apprentice ship-fitter, and apprentice machinist.

Boys wishing to enter for this examination must register with the board of labor employment for the trade desired, and must be over 15 and under 17 years of age.

LAST JURY TRIALS WILL BE TO-DAY

To-Morrow Will Be Sentence Day in the Criminal Court Here.

IT IS EXPECTED THAT LONG, ANDREWS, FULTON AND OTHERS WILL BE GIVEN SENTENCE ON FRIDAY FOR OFFENSES THEY STAND CONVICTED OF.

To-day will witness the last of the jury trials for the present term of the Criminal Court. There are one or two cases to be heard by juries, but it is expected that these will be completed before adjournment this afternoon, and to-morrow or Saturday will bring to a close one of the most important terms of the court held in many years, during which time many cases of more than usual public interest have been heard.

It is possible that to-morrow will be sentence day in the court, when Judge Rogers will pass sentence upon the many who have been convicted during the present term. Among these will be James M. Andrews, Cary L.
Fulton and James L. Long, as attorneys of the latter have signified their intention of withdrawing their motion in this case for a new trial and arrest of judgment. There are a total of about fourteen to be sentenced.

Yesterday's Proceedings.
Yesterday Frank Cosmer was convicted of petit larceny and sentenced to pay a fine of $15 and costs or serve 45 days at hard labor.
Bob Luckey, colored, charged with grand larceny, was to have been placed on trial, but he failed to appear when the case was called, and a bench warrant was issued for him, and his bondsmen notified to produce him at once.

The case of Zep. Parker, charged with assault with intent to murder, was continued until the next term of the court on account of the absence of some of the material witnesses.

A Real Wonderland.
South Dakota with its rich silver mines, bonanza farms, wide ranges and strange natural formations, is a veritable wonderland. At Mound City, in the home of Mrs. E. D. Clapp, a wonderful case of healing has lately occurred. Her son seemed near death with lung and throat trouble. "Exhaustive coughing spells occurred every five minutes," writes Mrs.
Clapp, "when I began giving Dr.
King's New Discovery, the special medicine that saved his life and completely cured him." Guaranteed for coughs and colds, throat and lung troubles, by all druggists. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

UNDERGOING EXAMINATION

Annual Examination of the Public School Teachers in Progress.

The annual examination for those applying for positions as teachers in the public schools of the county, and also for those whose certificates have expired, is now in progress in every county in the state.

Those who are now in the employ of the school board as teachers in the various public institutions, and whose certificates have not expired, are not compelled to take the examination, but only those who have been instructors such a length of time that their certificates have expired and those who have no certificates.

The examination for white teachers is being conducted at public school building No. 1 and for colored at school No. 31. Supt. N. B. Cook has charge of the examinations.

HAPPINESS.

The Difference Between the Sexes In This Important State.

One source of women's happiness is to be found, we think, in their love of detail. They enjoy every detail of social life. They love the minutiae of their work. They do not love it as a man loves his, for the sake of an end.
They look close at what they are doing, and they do not look forward.
They take pleasure in their children as they are. A defect, even though it be a serious one, destroys their pleasure in them far less than it destroys that of a man. They are not constantly oppressed by the thought of what that defect will mean in the future.
If a woman is by nature apprehensive her fears apply for the most part to little things. If a man is apprehensive he fears when the it is upon him the debacle of heaven and earth. For women time goes a little slower. They take pleasure in each level of that mosaic which makes up happiness and are not fretted because the pattern is not complete. Of this quality they have, no doubt, the inevitable defects—much brilliancy, little grasp and a tendency to frivolity. They are apt to fritter away their lives and minds on little things. They become engrossed with the details of play as well as the details of work. Men no doubt have more opportunities of keen pleasure than women have, but these opportunities are short lived. The happiness of the moment they are less fitted to take.
The difference between the sexes in this particular might, we believe, be thus summed up: A man is happy whenever he has anything to make him happy, but a woman is happy whenever she has nothing to make her unhappy.—London Spectator.

SHELLS THAT SWIM.

These Peculiar Fish Are Mostly Confined to Tropical Seas.

The idea of shells being found anywhere else except upon the seabeach or in river beds is a little startling.
Yet the naturalist who pursues his work from a ship in midocean can and does collect shells by the thousand at every dip of his net or bucket.

Swimming shellfish are mostly confined to tropical seas. The most familiar is the nautilus, which is, however, not a shellfish at all, but a near relative of the cuttlefish; also it is only seen on the surface at a certain time of the year. The real ocean shellfish are mostly very small. In the Indian ocean they may be seen by millions. One which bears the appalling name of Cavolinia trispinosa has the odd peculiarity of coming to the surface at 8 sharp every evening. Another, the Cleodora tridentata, rises at 7.

Frail as these tiny shellfish are, no storm ever injures them. They all possess the peculiar power of being able to will to sink a few feet below the surface of the sea, and there they remain when gales blow, perfectly safe, and rise again when the weather improves.

The largest of these ocean swimmers is about three inches in length.
Almost all are most brilliant in color and their shells far finer and more glossy than those found upon the sea-beach.

Puzzling Measures.

Wheat is sold in Great Britain in twenty different ways—by the quarter, comb, load, bushel, barrel, hun-dredweight, cental, windle and bobbet.
Further confusion is also caused by the fact that the bushel of wheat varies from sixty-two pounds at Birmingham, Gloucester and Taunton, to eighty pounds at Monmouth and Abergeynny, while at Aberystwith it is sixty-five pounds. Similarly, the boll weighs three imperial bushels at Newcastle, four throughout Scotland, six at Berwick, 264 pounds at Glasgow and 240 pounds at Hamilton. A quarter measures 498 pounds in country districts and 504 pounds in London.—London Milling.

Unique Advertising.

A tale is told of Robert Bonner and of his belief in advertising. One day he engaged a whole page of a newspaper and repeated a two line advertisement upon it over and over again.
It must have been repeated 5,000 times upon the page in the smallest type.

"Why do you waste your money, Robert?" asked a friend. "I noticed that same line so often. Would not half a page have answered your purpose?"

"Half a page would never have caused you to ask the question," replied Mr. Bonner. "At least five people will ask that to every line was the way I figured it."

Opening His Hand.

William Penn was once urging a man he knew to stop drinking to excess when the man suddenly asked, "Can you tell me of an easy way to do it?" "Yes," Penn replied readily; "it is just as easy as to open thy hand, friend." "Convince me of that," the man explained, "and I will promise upon my honor to do as you tell me."
"Well, my friend," Penn answered, "whenever thou finds a glass of liquor in thy hand open that hand before the glass touches thy lips, and thou wilt never drink to excess again."

No Surplus Wealth.

"What are you going to do with your surplus wealth?"
"My friend," answered Mr. Dustin Stax, "surplus wealth is a myth, a superstition. There is no such thing in the personal experience of any individual."—Washington Star.

It is only because each man is so different from his fellows that we are able to endure one another's company.

A RARE BIRD.

Why an American Showman Could Not Get It For His Museum.

When the eminent French writer Ferdinand Brunetiere visited the United States some years ago, lecturing at Harvard and other leading universities, he had an amusing experience, which he described in the recollections of his American tour which he afterward published. The great litterateur devoted much attention to the life and works of Bossuet, who was often styled the "Eagle of Meaux," on account perhaps of his lofty flights of eloquence.
This fact, with others pertaining to his literary career, was mentioned by some daily papers during his stay in this country. It caught the eyes of a shrewd American showman, who, however, got somewhat mixed over the meaning of the allusion. He wrote the following letter to the French author:

Sir—I have just heard that a certain Meaux eagle, very celebrated, it appears, in your country, has become your exclusive property. Now, I am the manager of a museum in one of the largest cities in the States. This Meaux eagle, whose reputation has been enhanced by your eloquence, would certainly not fail to excite the curiosity of my public. If you will let me have the rare bird and tell me how to feed it, you can quote your own figure.

Brunetiere politely explained that the "rare bird" had been dead for nearly 200 years.

CORDON BLEU.

Origin of the French Title as Applied to a Fine Cook.

The Order of the St. Esprit was created in 1587, was suppressed by the revolution and was revived by Louis XVIII. in 1814. To speak rightly, Louis XVIII. considered that the order had never ceased to exist, for he had given two collars during his exile, in 1810, the one to Francis I., king of the two Sicilies, and the other to his brother, the Prince of Salerno, the father of his brother's wife, the Duchess d'Anjou.

The ribbon of this order was a light blue color. It was worn around the neck in the reigns of Henry III. and Henry IV., but was changed by Louis XIV., when it was worn across the chest. The Chevaliers of the St. Esprit were always known under the name of Les Cordon Bleu, and this was the supreme honor during the monarchy of France. It was from this that the title of "cordon bleu" was given to a first class cook. A gentleman one day declared after a good meal that he who had cooked the dinner had proved himself a "cordon bleu" among cooks—in other words, the master of his art. The title became quite the rage and is now always used to designate a good cook without the persons who use it knowing what it means or still less the origin of the title.

FOREIGN HOTELS.

They Differ in Many Ways From Those of our Own Country.

Hot water is not "la-fa-on" (spiced) at foreign hotels, says the Travel Magazine. If you hear a gentle tap on the door in the morning, you may interpret it as meaning that a copper ever of hot water has just been set down outside for your personal use.

If you order a bath, it will be prepared for you accordingly, and a sweet voiced maid will give you notice when it is ready. You are not expected to operate the water valves at all, and it is doubtful if you would succeed if you tried.

From a variety of vacant rooms at a hotel shown you select the one you prefer, with a definite agreement as to price. You are not required to accept humbly and thankfully, in blind faith, whatever room the clerk deigns to assign to you, as in America. It is expected, however, that you will order your breakfasts at the hotel, being free to get your other meals elsewhere if you prefer.

Electric light switches are not commonly turned on by a push button, as they are in our buildings, but by a small brass lever. Many of the best hotels have a reading light in the headboard of each bedstead.

The Last Resort.

A man went into an oculist's the other day and, complaining of falling sight, got fitted with a pair of spectacles.

"Is this the weakest glass for my eye?" he asked.
"Yes," replied the oculist.

"Supposing I can't see with it after a few months?"

"Get a stronger then."
"And if I still can't see?"
"Get a still stronger."
"And if the strongest glass fails?"
"In that case I think if I were you I should buy a small, intelligent dog and a couple of yards of string."

It Made a Difference.

"Good gracious!" exclaimed the visitor. "Hear those boys fighting and yelling out there. Regular little hoodlums, aren't they?"

"I can't say," replied Mrs. Fawcley.
"I'm rather nearsighted, you know."

"But surely you can hear them."
"Oh, yes; but I can't tell whether they're my children or the neighbors."
—Exchange.

Doing Up a Shirt.

"This bill is too high," said the customer. "Too high?" ejaculated the laundryman. "That's what I said—too high." "But, man, do you know how long it takes to do up a shirt?" "Why, about four washings!"—Yonkers Statesman.

The Bore.

"I think Jones is one of the worst bores that ever lived." "Why so?" "He broke right in and began talking about himself while I was telling about my thrilling experience I once had out west."—Indianapolis Star.

THE VESSELS OF FLORIDA

Government Census is Now Being Taken of Craft in Every Port.

Special to The Journal.
Jacksonville, June 5.—A. L. Vanercook, special agent of the bureau of census, Washington, was in Jackso-ville taking a census of all boats, yachts and other craft, five tons and over, registered.

Mr. Vanercook is now in Miami and will go from there to Key West and before returning to Washington will visit every seaport town in the state, taking a census of all vessels.

He will, however, after visiting several of the down state towns, return to Jacksonville and complete his work here among the vessels along the St. Johns river.

The census is being taken under an act of the last congress, appropriating the sum of $75,000,000 for harbor and river improvements, and prescribing that a census of all the boats over five tons in the United States be taken every ten years. The object is to determine the value of the shipping industry in each port, the same to be as a guide in making future appropriations for harbor and river improvements.

Mr. Vanercook's work consists in taking the name, register, length, beam, number, tonnage, number of crew, carried, occupation of, boat, amount of money paid out in wages to employees, net income per year, and so on, even to the minutest detail.

Marie Antoinette's Books.

The unhappy Queen Marie Antoinette possessed an important library of 112 volumes, consisting of plays and romances, little books a la mode, the works of Pascal, Bossuet, Fenelon, Bourdalone, Massillon, Boileau, Couseau, Corneille, Moliere, Voltaire and many others. She loved music passionately and had a large collection of operas in eighty-nine numbers. The bindings were by Blaizot and were uniform in red morocco, with the arms of France and Austria stamped upon them. The execution of the work was poor and the decadence in the art of binding evident. The glories of the art of Padeloup and the Deromes had passed away, and the revolution effectually killed whatever knowledge remained of the ancient skill of the bookbinders. Half a century later saw its revival in France, and the art has since flourished both there and on English soil.—London Spectator.

How Beetles Defend Themselves.

Beetles have other defenses than their cuirass, such as nauseous or cas-tic liquids, which they expel on provocation, and, strange to say, certain beetles actually exude their blood, charged with noxious products. The practice is confined to the chrysomelidae, some of the timarchae and adanomia, the coccinellidae and the meloidae. The blood of the coccinellidae has a strong, disagreeable odor like that of the whole insect. That of the timarchae is odorless, but has an astringent flavor, and in the case of the Timarchae primeloides is venomous. The blood of the meloidae contains much cantharidine.

BONIFAY

Special to The Journal.
Bonifay, June 5.—The county commissioners met Monday and are still in session. There is an effort on foot to have an election held in this county to determine whether or not intoxicating liquors can be sold.
Work is soon to begin on the jail, and it seems that it will be pushed through to a finish.

from Westville.

peace, was in town one day this week.

ter, Mrs. Lutz Lee, at Millville.

Harry Orchard Takes Stand; Testifies to Many Murders

where our residence was, and where my father's office was."

Objections Raised.

The defense moved to have all of this testimony thrown out as immaterial and incompetent. Senator Borah said he would connect the conversation with Orchard, who was a member of the same alleged conspiracy as Haywood, Meyer and Pettibone.
Judge Wood declined to grant the motion.

Haywood's attorney did not cross-examine young Steubenberg.

J. Bowman, a laborer of Caldwell, testified to seeing Orchard in company with a man giving his name as Simmons. Witness identified a picture of Jack Simpkins as "Simmons." The photograph became state exhibit
"A."

On cross-examination Bowman said that neither Orchard nor Simpkins had made any attempt to conceal themselves and there was nothing mysterious about their movements.

No Concealment.

Steve Dempsey, proprietor of the hotel at Caldwell, where Hogan and Simmons first stopped, identified their names on the hotel register, which was introduced as evidence. The two men, the witness said, occupied the same room. Dempsey said Hogan told him he was a sheep buyer, and wanted to know where he could get some good stock. Dempsey introduced him to a number of stock raisers.

Cross-examined by the attorneys for the defense, Dempsey said Hogan and Simmons had never tried to conceal themselves, but went around town like other traveling men. Dempsey saw Hogan after he was arrested and identified him as Orchard. It was the same man, he said.

Several witnesses expected by the state were delayed in reaching Boise on Tuesday. This caused an early adjournment.
